This new two berth model is the successor to our pre-war 'Fawn', but being the same size as the 'Gazelle' affords a spacious interior, including a roomy toilet and additional storage space, while at the same time retaining the compact end-kitchen unit as fitted in the 'Gazelle'.

The main features of construction are the same as the 'Gazelle' model, finished outside in Thames Blue. The interior layout is altered, giving two single beds in the front end, with a chest of drawers between them, under the window. A detachable table fits onto the front of this chest of drawers. A detachable table fits onto the front of this chest of drawers.

This layout, besides giving a spacious effect, allows comfortable lounging in the daytime, without alteration to the beds.

Additional working space in the kitchen is afforded next to the sink unit, with extra locker space underneath. Another attractive feature in this model is the fitted china cabinet just adjacent to the sink. This combination provides a layout which incorporates a pleasing appearance with ease of use.

Just opposite the main door is the locker containing the chemical closet, and also giving access to the gas cylinder stowage space.

When the toilet is required for use, the compartment door when opened, brings with it two hanging curtains on arms—this provides (E & Ei) an adequate space for toilet facilities.

If further space is required, the toilet door and wardrobe door can be opened to meet each other, giving the whole of the rear end of the Caravan for toilet use.
